THE ALLEGED EXISTENCE OF SLAVERY IN HONGKONG.

In continuation of the despatches on this sub ject we give the following: to the Right Hon, the EARL OF KIMBURLEY

Government House, Hongkong, 15th June, 1881. My Lord.—In raply to your Lordship's des patch of 31st December, 1880, asking for particulars as to the two Contagious Diseases Ordin ances of 1857 and 1867 having caused an increase We of brothel slavery, I submit herewith to your Lordship the following considerations in support of the statement I made on this subject in my despatch of 13th November, 1880, to which your Lordship refers. 2.—That under the Ordinance No. 12 of 185 the evils of brothel slavery were intensified, and assumed day after day a graver aspect, would seem to have been the opinion of the Registrar-General, Mr. Croil C. Smith, who, ten years after Mr. Labouchere gave the instructions the wisdom of abandoning the claim. They which your Lordship quotes, wrote on 2nd November, 1866, as follows:--"There is enother matter connected with the the present juncture in exacting satisfaction | brothels, licensed and unlicensed, in Hongkong from the Corean Government for the outrage | which almost daily assumes a graver aspect. refer to what is no less than the trafficking in human flesh between the brothel keepers and the vagabonds of the Colony. Women are bought ness with foreign Powers. We await with and sold in nearly every brothel in the place They are induced by specious pretexts to come to Hongkong, and then, after they are admitted into the brothels, such a system of espionage in kept over them, and so frightened do they get as to prevent any application to the police." 🥞 So far for the Ordinance of 1857.

3.—As regards Ordinance No. 10 of 1867, there s the testimony of another Registrar-General Mr. Lister, who stated before the Commission is 1877 that he does "not think the new Ordinance had any real effect, or could have had any effect upon the sale of women." Such is indeed the

4.—But there is yet the important question whether or not the condition of a woman once sold into virtual slavery to the keeper of a dicensed brothel was in any way ameliorated by the Ordinance of 1867. As regards this point am disposed to say that the Ordinance No. 12 of valley of the Yangtsze. The tea crop seems to 1867, by giving larger powers to the Registrarbe very abundant, and we hear the silk crop is General, and thereby indirectly to the Inspectors, with whom the practical working of the Ordinance lies, made the condition of the unfortunate women sold to the keeper of a licensed brothel worse than it was before. For, as the experi enced police magistrate, Mr. May, stated in 1877 in his evidence before the Commission. "the icensed brothel keepers look upon the Inspectors as their protectors." There can be no doubt of the truth of what Mr. Pang Ui-Shang told the ame Commission, that "the fact of licensing these brothels gives the keepers a sort of official authority," and that "they boast of the protection of the inspectors." The natural consequence of this is that the unfortunate women, who, on being conveyed into the Colony, bring with them an extraordinary dread of all foreigners. bave no courage to seek their freedom; and, as Inspector Log stated before the Commission. Mr. A. Lister, who had been entrusted with the working of this Ordinance, stated before the Commission that "new women would almost have preferred going to the whippingpost," and that " the mere threat of sending them to examination was generally sufficient keep them in order." Thus also the keepers, by threatening to place their houses under medica

The next despatch, which concludes the coespondençe, we give in extenso :--The Right Hon, the Earl on Kimberley

Governor Sir J. Pope Hennessy. K.C. V. G Downing Street, 18th March, 1882 Sir.—I have had under my consideration your despatch of the Slat August, 1881, transmitting report by the Atternor General, Mr. O'Malley. upon Sir John Smale's statements from the Bench respecting the alleged existence of slavery n Hongkong. Mr. O'Malley's remarks appear to me to be well considered and convincing, and I have now the honour to transmit to you in to which this despatch will be added.

2.—In your despatch of the 23rd January 1880 you forwarded with other documents a copy of a statement made by Chief Justice Sir John Smale from the Beach on the 6th October, 1879 in the course of which he observes that on the Ath of January 1815 a proplamation was issued in these words:---"Whereas the Acts of the British Parliamen for the abolition of the slave trade and for the abolition of slavery extend by their own proper force and authority to Hongkong, this is to apprise all persons of the same, and to give notice that these Acts will be enforced by all Her Majesty's officers, civil and military, within you (the Secretary of State). I mentioned this Sir John Smale concludes his statement with a summary of his views, divided under eight heads; in the fifth of these he cites the abovementioned proclamation as declaring that the English laws against slavery would be enforced by Her Majesty's officers, and in other places he asserts that these laws had not been enforced. with the result that there are now a great number. 10.000 or even 20.000 slaves, in Hongkong 3.—Desiring to be more precisely informed of the circumstances in which Sir John Smale's statement, involving so grave a charge against Her Majesty's officers responsible for the ad ministration and execution of the law in th colony was made. I instructed you in my des patch of the 20th of May, 1880, to request him to be good enough to specify the Aots of Parliament which he considered have not been enforced in Hongkong, and the particular sections to which he alladed. Your despatch of the 4th August, 1881, transmits Sir John Smale's reply to my question in a letter dated the 20th August, 1880, in which he says:—"I am not aware that on any of the three occasions on which I have spoken on the subject I have said anything to give rise to the question * * * have on the three occasions above referred to cited

4.—These occasions are the 6th of October 879, the 27th of Outober, 1879, and the third apparently on the 31st March, 1880. It seems that Sir John Smale does not allege that the existence in Hongkong of the alayery to which he refera arise. from the neglect to enforce any specific Act of Parliament, and looking to the first head of his summary, to the passage on page 13, and to a sentence in his letter of the 24th November, 1880. gather that this last sentence states succinctly the views upon which he bases the assertion that children who are said to be bought and sold in Hongkong become the slaves of their so-called.

aw of England, as I have learnt it, is that one can sell his own liberty or that of any dependant; that to sell or buy such liberty is an offence against the law; and therefore, in the absence of a special penalty, a misdemeanour." 6.—There can be no doubt of the correctness of the first clause of this proposition, and it ollows that no one can become legally a slave where the law of England prevails. Slavery in its echnical sense can only exist in a country where the law recognises and will enforce the claim of the master to dispose of the person and liberty of the slave, or at least will not interfere to control the authority of the master over the person and liberty of the slave, except perhaps for the repression of cruelty such as would in a civilised State be repressed in respect of domestic animals There can be no doubt also that whoever commits an act which the law prohibits is guilty of a misdemeanour (supposing the law has not declared this proposition," that to buy or sell such liberty is an offence against the law." fails to distinguish transactions which are effectual, and would lawful unless prohibited, from transactions which in view of the law are empty forms having no tangible effect or result. Going through a form criminal offence except by the operation of an

know of no Act of Parliament which makes a pretended sale of human liberty a crime. 7.-You will find at page 94 of the print a copy of a document called a bill of sale which Sir John Smale adduces as proof of slave-holding in the colony, but I fail to perceive that he has anywhere explained how this process can produce so singular a result as that when a father for a sum of money delivers his son into the control of another person and the transaction is evid enced by a document in this form, the son. although on British territory, thereby loses his statue as a free person. Yet it would be necessary that this result should be clearly established before it can be admitted that the transaction creates slavery or amounts to slavedealing. The fact appears to be that Sir John terms "purchase" and "sale," and with the best transaction which they represent in this case. 8.—It may be a question whether the subse said to be sold for adoption, domestic servitude treatment would presumably result in acts and law of the colony is not only strong enough to adoption and demestic service as it prevails in women and girls; and the fact that the law if Hongkong, which are represented with the members of the community is in itself a proof 9.—It is desirable, however, putting aside the doubt, relieve the Government from a very dis. such a contract as is evidenced by the so-called so what, measures should be taken to remove

Such a system evidently requires most careful consideration, especially if Dr. Eitel's pinion be accurate (p. 14) that there is cause to believe that the abuses naturally connected with it tend to oncourage kidnauping.

16.—I put aside for the present the question of brothel girls. Their condition and the means by which the supply is kept up are well known, and I do not find that any additional light is thrown apon them by these papers. The Ordinance No. of 1875 has already made the sale or nurchase of any woman or child, or the bringing into the Forbidden Land, and Japan will not be permitted Colony of any woman or child sold or purchased to interfere. It may be that these children also are adequately protected by the law as it stands. If a mistress heats her servant girl, or a man ill-treats his adopted son the law is doubtless strong enough to punish the offence; and any charge of kidnapping would such act to be a felony), but the middle term of squally be dealt with by the Courts. Kwang King man has been heard from again The District Magistrate of Huang-yen offered a raward of six thousand tasks for his capture, and half that sum for his head, and immediately he made the same offer for the person or head of the Magistrate. This proclamation of the latter was called forth by the dering of the pirate chief, who captured and held to ransom several wealthy men. Soon after this a battle of some kind took place about the 1st of May in which the rebels were victorious. They are formidable enough to be styled rebels; though only 400 strong, they defy the entire force of the district, now 7,500 regular troops which, with volunteers number about ten thousand. Rumour says that 60 imperialists were killed, but the authorities admit only five as the extent of their loss. The latest rumour is that Kwang has been dangerously wounded by a fellow chief, and that nese children in the Colony.
